Bomb-Laden Craft Crashes, Sixty Injured, Two Missing; Base Commander Is Killed

By NEIL SHAW
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

FAIRFIELD, CALIF., Aug. 7.—(INS)—Authorities at Fairfield-Suisun Air Force Base today plunged into an intensive investigation of the crash and explosion of a bomb-laden B-29 bomber that took at least 17 lives.

Two others were missing and 60 injured. The dead include Brig. Gen. Robert F. Travis, 46-year-old commander of the 9th Heavy Bomber Wing and of the base, a jump-off point for trans-Pacific flights.

Twenty Aboard
Of the 20 men aboard the bomber when it crashed after it took off Saturday night, ten were known dead, two were missing and eight were injured.

The other seven dead and many of the injured were from the ranks of base firemen who rushed in to battle the flames on the burning Superfort and were trapped when ten 500-pound bombs and 8,000 gallons of high octane gasoline on the plane exploded ten minutes later.

Observers on the scene declared that most if not all the casualties resulted from the mighty blast, which was heard 50 miles away. Supporting this view was the fact that the pilot and several others aboard got out of the plane before the explosion and escaped with only slight injuries.

The blast of the 8,000 gallons of aviation gasoline and two and one half tons of demolition bombs leveled a trailer court only 75 feet from the scene. Residents of the court—base officers, their wives and children—had been evacuated by quick-thinking military police.

Base authorities described the B-29's flight as "routine," and did not comment on unofficial reports that Gen. Travis was on a secret mission to the Far East.

Runaway Propellers
Moments after the plane took off, shortly before 11 p.m., it reported "runaway propellers" on its two inside engines and failure of the landing gear to come up.

The evening prior to the inauguration, a reception will be held for visiting delegates. The short induction ceremony will be held at 10:30 a.m. at Beaver Field.

PA NEWS OBSERVES

Today there were beautiful water lilies blooming in the pond in the flower garden on the place of Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Seal, East Washington street.

Eighty-two bushels of wheat were averaged in two different fields at the farm of Thomas E. Czar, R. D. 3, Beaver Falls. His wheat harvest usually averages 60 to 65 bushels to the acre.

All indications point to record crops of oats and wheat throughout the county. With the wheat threshed in most sections, farmers are now concentrating on the harvesting of oats. According to old superstition, the first frost comes six weeks after the threshing of oats.

People are taking advantage of the warm weather while they have the opportunity. The weather man provided excellent weather Sunday, with the result that hundreds of motorists crowded the roads in the evening. Route 19 resembled the Boulevard of the Allies after a Pitt-Notre Dame football game.

Deny Reports Casualty List Totals 6000

Army Announces 2,616 To Date

By ALLEN J. FUNCH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—A high army official today denied reports that American casualties in Korea total 6,000 or more than double the losses thus far made public.

The official, who could not be identified by name, told newsmen: "It (the 6,000 figure) doesn't agree with the casualty lists I have seen."

He said the army has announced casualties totaling 2,616 up to August 6, including 153 killed in action, 1,500 wounded and 873 missing.

The official pointed out there obviously is a time lag between the time a man is listed as a casualty and when the casualty is officially announced by the army.

He asserted the army is "trying to announce the casualties in a dignified and considered way," notifying next of kin first.

Same System

The procedure is the same as was used in World War II and the spokesman declared that the army "hasn't deviated in the slightest" in handling casualties in the Korean campaign.

The Pentagon receives flash reports from Tokyo on latest casualty figures but the official said these are classified and cannot be released immediately.

To illustrate how figures vary, the spokesman pointed out that the total number of men missing today are 65 less than yesterday.

Reductions of this type, he said, occur frequently as men find their way back to American units.

North Korean casualties have been estimated at 37,500.

Meantime, the Senate Armed Services Committee is keeping an eye on U.S. casualty lists to determine whether the number exceeds that actually announced to date.

Koreans Steal Army Supplies

By TOM CARSON
A SOUTHERN PORT, Korea, Aug. 7.—American and South Korean authorities today were investigating widespread theft of military supplies, possibly stolen by communists to arm guerrilla units in this overcrowded Korean port town.

Thefts from American dumps and warehouses already are a major headache to port authorities in this city jammed with at least 75,000 refugees.

Fencing Area
Port officer Lt. John C. Little of San Antonio, Tex., said that it is impossible to prevent the thefts because of a lack of watchmen, so the army now is fencing off the whole area.

But the South Koreans do not believe that the thefts are isolated cases of looting.

They are fearful that the communists have organized a program to build Red strength inside the city for a revolt when the time is ripe. And the Koreans point out that Red regulars are only about 40 road miles away.

City authorities tried to smash communist elements in the town five days before North Korean armies crossed the border to begin their desperate onslaught. The city's top communists were arrested on June 20, and estimated thousands others have been arrested for questioning since then.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 7.—A number of Security Council delegates mapped strategy over the week-end for cracking down on Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik's delaying tactics and are consulting further today on stopping his "above the law" behavior.

The next round in Security Council sessions under Malik's chairmanship for August begins tomorrow afternoon, when the U. S. will lead the running battle of last week to force discussion of the Korean aggression before any intervening other issues.

Reactivate State Guard For Home Defense Work

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Additional organizational plans were being drawn today for mobilization of the State Guard to replace the 28th Infantry Division and other units of the Pennsylvania National Guard alerted for federal service.

A spokesman for the State Military Affairs Department said regional unit headquarters and commanders will be named shortly.

Gov. James H. Duff ordered activation of the State Guard yesterday and designated Harrisburg, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia as headquarters for three regiments.

Weber Commander

The Chief Executive appointed State Adj. Gen. Frank A. Weber Commander of the State Guard. Duff said members of the State Guard will replace immediately at home armories units of the P.N.G. as they are inducted into federal service.

The step was taken, the governor said, to insure the internal security of Pennsylvania in absence of the National Guard.

Plans for activation of the home front soldiers were mapped Saturday at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation in conjunction with the Governor Military Advisory Committee. Attending were General Weber, Maj. Gen. Milton G. Baker, Commandant of Valley Forge Military Academy; Brig. Gen. Richard K. Mellon, and Brig. Gen. A. H. Stackpole.

General Baker commanded the State Guard during the past war. Recruit 10,000

The governor said General Weber will be charged with recruiting 10,000 officers and enlisted men for State Guard duties.

Under state law the ranks of the State Guard can be filled by a draft in the event there are insufficient volunteers. But the governor said he hopes as many men as possible will be recruited from World War II Veterans.

"General Weber will consult with the United States Army to obtain the necessary arms, equipment and supplies to outfit the State Guard units which will operate at the division level the same as the departing 28th Infantry Division," the governor said.

"The immediate changeover at home armories will be effected promptly and expeditiously by reason of the fact that no change in facilities or property in these state-owned armories will be necessary."

Think Molotov Trying To Get Red China Aid

Visits Peiping To See General

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Aug. 7.—(INS)—American officials in Tokyo tonight expressed belief Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov's reported visit to Peiping to mean that Russia is trying to induce Communist China to take an active part in the Korean war.

If this is the case, they said, there are indications that China's Red leader Mao Tse-Tung will have none of it.

The high-placed American authorities in Tokyo viewed the reports that Molotov and other Soviet officials are in Peiping conferring with Mao as another reflection of a conflict in interests between Russia and Red China.

These same U.S. officials first disclosed last January that Mao and the Kremlin were in disagreement over the terms of the Sino-Soviet pact which was finally concluded in Moscow after months of bickering.

One American authority declared tonight:

"China just is not a satellite that Russia can push around. China is too big and her material interests do not always coincide with Russia's on a given issue."

This official said the Korean war is one of those issues, explaining:

"We have no indication that Chinese troops are in Korea and we do not believe Chinese troops will be sent to Korea."

"Look at the map. All of China's industrial centers and the major portion of her vital railways are well within range of our bombers."

"China is having economic trouble enough without being bombed, and she cannot enter the Korean fighting without risking bomb attacks from our bases which are now sending B29s into North Korea not too far from the Manchurian border."

The annual company and union picnic of the Johnson Bronze was held on Saturday at Cascade park—the event being held all day.

Registration started at 11:30 a.m. and before the end of the evening an estimated 4,000 persons, both young and old, had enjoyed this year's outing.

For the kiddies there were free hot dogs (as many as they could eat), free ice cream and lemonade. The manner in which the refreshments disappeared indicated that the kiddies at the park on Saturday had a very good time.

Red Resistance Slows Progress On Broad Front

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Aug. 8.—(Tuesday)—U. S. Marine and Army troops hammered out a gain of 3,000 yards in the southern sector Monday in the Korean War's first counter-offensive.

Stubborn Red resistance slowed the American push at nightfall, forcing the marines and infantrymen to dig in at their new positions.

As the bitter struggle ran into the early hours of Tuesday General Douglas MacArthur omitted his usual midnight communique.

An Eighth Army Headquarters bulletin Monday night said 10,000 Americans, introducing flame-throwing tanks into the conflict, gained one and three-fifths miles along a "broad front" against "strong resistance."

Marines struck fiercely at the enemy on the 15-mile extreme southern wing of the winding front.

Heavy Casualties

The communique, issued at U. S. 8th Army Field Headquarters at 8:30 o'clock Monday night (6:30 a.m. EDT), said the North Koreans suffered "heavy" casualties as they hotly disputed the American push west of the vital port of Pusan.

A field dispatch said a Marine battalion was isolated by counter-attacking Red infantry during the swirling battle in which Air Force, Marine and Navy planes closely supported the American troops.

After the initial onrush, in which the Americans captured strategic heights overlooking an important road center east of the enemy's springboard base at Chinnju, the offensive slowed down.

The Americans then were obliged to dig in at their hard-won advance positions and prepare to resist expected Communist counter-attacks and infiltrating thrusts under cover of night's darkness.

International News Service War Correspondent Frank Coniff said that the Marines and U. S. Army troops, supplemented by South Korean commando units, clung to their positions at nightfall following a day of "confused" fighting.

In a dispatch filed direct from the exploding southern sector at 8:25 o'clock Monday night (6:25 a.m. EDT), Coniff said the offensive showed signs of slowing down at some points by late Monday afternoon.

Hope To Tighten

He quoted field commanders as expressing the hope they would be able to tighten coordination among U. S. Army, Marine and South Korean units tomorrow to achieve smoother functioning of the drive on Chinnju.

ported that the plane missed the housing project roofs by about 35 feet.

The airfield was fully lighted in preparation for the landing. Brown had sent SOS signals. The signals were sent on a wavelength not heard in Philadelphia, but were picked up and relayed by New Castle (Del.) airfield and the air traffic control center in New York City.

Reidy reported that he made his way to a highway after landing and halted a motorist who took him to the airport administration building.

Lanesville, Pa., Aug. 7.—(INS)—Two Pierpont, O., men today reportedly had been drowned in nearby Pymatuning lake when their airplane crashed into the water.

Star police identified the pair as Robert Hagstrom, 33, and Don Brown, 25. Officers said their plane dived toward the lake three times and pulled up successfully after each. On the fourth try, it smashed into the water.

DRAFT COMMIES FOR LABOR CAMP, REP. LOVRE-ASKS

"Immediate effect" a defense training program formulated by top government officials in 1948 but held in mothballs until now.

To Activate Plan
Labor Secretary Tobin ordered activation of the master plan, designed to ward off threatened labor shortages in certain fields, through his department's 200 bureau of apprenticeship field offices.

The plan calls for:
1. An extensive program by industry to provide leadership training for advanced apprentices who "will form the core around which full-scale industrial mobilization and production can take place."
2. The private employment of "qualified apprenticeship applicants" in the 16-17-year age bracket to "provide a continuous supply of skilled labor."
3. An investigation to determine if there are sufficient apprentices in "critical" war production skills and meet accelerated defense needs, and if the training programs are adequate in quality.
4. Action by industry to improve such programs were necessary.

Tobin ordered that particular attention be given to bolstering apprenticeship training in the following trades:
Aircraft and engine mechanic, boilermaker, refractory brick layer, laboratory apparatus glass blower, instrument repairman, liftman, machinists, maintenance mechanic, millwright, model maker, molder and coremaker, pattern makers, precision lens grinder, shipprigger and tool and die maker.

with the drag caused by the landing gear, apparently made the ship virtually unmaneuverable. The pilot was seen to make a desperate effort to swing around into the landing strip.

The big ship just cleared a housing unit containing 800 enlisted men and then crashed. Although flames burst out immediately the plane was not badly smashed.

About ten minutes later the fire reached the gasoline and bombs touching off a violent explosion that sent fragments showering over a half mile area.

A score of doctors and nurses and ambulance loads of blood plasma and medical equipment were rushed to the scene.

At least 30 trailers and several other vehicles were wrecked or badly damaged by the terrific explosion. The entire base was rocked by the blast, and the noise was loud enough in Vallejo, 28 miles away, to awaken thousands from their sleep.

UN DELEGATES DISCUSS PLANS TO STOP MALIK

of Nationalist China and efforts to inject a Soviet dictated peace in Korea into the debate, Malik ignored accepted council rules to bar the South Korean delegate as "witness" by demanding that an invitation be extended also to the North Korean Communists. A majority of Security Council delegates have indicated unyielding opposition to Malik's latest move.

Among steps mapped to crack down on Malik are challenges under Rule 30, which states that the chairman must submit to a majority ruling if challenged on procedure by any delegate.

At the same time, the council is anticipating a new report from General Douglas MacArthur as commanding officer of the United Nations forces in Korea. The second report may have an important bearing on world opinion if MacArthur's finding should identify troops other than those of North Korea being thrown into the battle.

The grave view taken by U. N. as a whole of the Korean crisis was underlined in an annual report issued today by Secretary General Trygve Lie in preparation for the September assembly meeting. In it he declares that the North Korean aggression and subsequent defiance of U. N. is a far greater threat to peace than any other east-west clash, including the 1948 Berlin blockade crisis.

In describing the problem Little said: "It is just like up at the front—we just don't have enough men. But I think even if we stood guard shoulder to shoulder pilfering still would go on."

"We catch them nightly and turn them over to South Korean cops who take care of them."

Little added that one night a South Korean lieutenant and two sergeants were arrested for looting American supplies.

Recruiting Campaign
Immediately upon arriving home Lt. Col. Mitchell and the new battalion commander Major Alfred Barnes will start a recruiting campaign for 100 men to bring the battalion to war strength. Headquarters will be the Joseph V. Cunningham Armory near Cascade Park.

During the shortened training period at Indiantown Gap the 229th made a fine record. Range firing was accurate, discipline was good, and the condition of quarters ranked with the best.

In the next thirty days the battalion will practice two nights per week instead of one. During the 30 day period the men will be given opportunity to get their personal affairs in shape.

SENATORS WOULD RESTORE GI DEPENDENT ALLOWANCE

Morse (R) Ore., who requested the appearance of the California oilman and friend of President Truman, is expected to seek an explanation.

Pauley, a multi-millionaire and former war reparations ambassador, turned out to be the "mystery" witness on Korea at last Thursday's unusual hearing.

Committeemen said they found his testimony contradictory and confusing. They demanded to know why Pauley was called in the first place and at whose request.

Pauley testified that he recommended in 1946 that Russia be "compelled" to back a democratic government for all of Korea. Documents showed that President Truman rejected the crackdown on Communists that Pauley recommended.

Dispose Of Pauley

The Senate unit, once it disposes of the Pauley controversy, may decide Tuesday when to go ahead with the family allowance legislation.

Hunt said the allowances should be more liberal than those in effect during World War II because "the cost of living has soared in the meantime."

Hunt said he will support the Tydings Bill, which would set up a somewhat higher scale. It provides for a contribution of $30 a month from a service man who signs up for the family benefits. His wife then would receive $75 a month from the government, the first child, $25 and additional children, $20 each.

DOLORES McEWEN WEDS JOSEPH MAZUR

A wedding reception at the Slavish hall supplemented the marriage of Dolores McEwen and Joseph Mazur on Saturday, August 5.

Impressive double ring vows were exchanged by the young couple in the First Congregational church, East Reynolds street, at 7 o'clock. Dr. G. S. Bennett officiated, with a host of friends and relatives in attendance.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shirl Miles of 1330 Sheets street, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Anna Mazur of R. D. 9, Martha street.

Approaching the altar with her father, the bride wore a white organ gown over blue taffeta. Dainty ruffles outlined the off-shoulder neckline, with cap and sleeves as additional features. A crown of seed pearls and rhinestones caught up her short white net veil. She wore the traditional something old, new, borrowed and blue. Yellow and white gladioli with streamers made up her bridal bouquet.

As maid of honor, Miss Leta Fazio wore an organ gown over pink taffeta, styled like that of the bride. A sweetheart bonnet complemented the attire. She carried a bouquet of orchid and pink gladioli.

John Schinkler served the groom as best man. Ushers were Shirl Miles and James Criswell. During the ceremony Earl Hammond sang "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Later in the evening, the couple departed for a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. They will reside on the East Brook road upon their return.

Mrs. Mazur is a graduate of the local senior high school. The groom, a graduate of the Shenango high school, is a veteran of five years service in the army.

PITTSBURGH WEDDING OF INTEREST HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Llewellyn of 1117 North Liberty street, and family attended the wedding Saturday afternoon of the former's grandson, Harry I. Llewellyn, of Glassport, to Lois Siegert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Siegert, Bloomfield, Pittsburgh, in Smithfield Street Congregational church, Pittsburgh.

Rev. E. E. Martz, the pastor, performed the ceremony. The bride was given away by her father. The organist, Mrs. W. Aiton, played nuptial music during the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a chiffon-over-satin gown, with picture hat, and carried a bouquet of yellow and pink roses. The bridesmaids wore gowns of pink and green, carrying bouquets of yellow and pink roses.

A reception was held in Mazur hotel, Monongahela avenue, Glassport, in the evening. The bridal pair left for Atlantic City.

The bride and groom are employed at the Irvin Works of Pittsburgh. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Llewellyn of Glassport, and attended grade school in Mahoningtown.

EIGHT SPOTS HONOR MRS. LESTER GIBSON

Mrs. Lester Gibson was pleasantly surprised with a stork shower when members of the Eight Spots club gathered in her home on Ridgeland avenue recently.

Informal social diversions were the pastime, with the honoree later showered with an array of lovely miscellaneous gifts. Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Howard Tindal were presented with lovely baby gifts from their secret sisters.

Special guest of the event was Mrs. Gibson's mother, Mrs. Roy Dickey. A dainty lunch was later served by the hostesses.

GILFILLAN-LEWIS BEAUTIFUL RITE

Miss Margaret Jane Gilfillan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Justus Clyde Gilfillan, 414 Glen-Moore boulevard, and Theodore Arthur Lewis, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Arthur Lewis, 1316 Wilmington avenue, exchanged solemn wedding vows in a ceremony of formal beauty on Saturday evening, Aug. 5, at seven o'clock.

The First U. P. church was the setting for the rite, with Rev. Robert H. Mayo performing the single ring service. Bouquets of white gladioli and palms and ferns adorned the altar. The aisles were lined with standards of white candles, tied with bouquets of white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the graceful bride wore a gown of white nylon net over taffeta, complemented with an illusion veil and a floral cascade of white California asters and white gladioli buds.

The maid of honor, Miss Jessie Kindel, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and the bridesmaids, Miss Mary Lou Braun, of Adrian, Mich., Miss Nancy Lewis, the groom's sister, Miss Caroline Green, this city, and Miss Jane Kennedy of Tarrytown, N. Y., were costumed in white nylon net over taffeta. The maid of honor's bouquet of rose California asters and the bridesmaids' bouquets of violet California asters provided a charming note of contrast to the fashionable white gowns.

Richard Lewis, the groom's brother, served as best man for the occasion, and the ushers were Justus C. Gilfillan, brother of the bride; Robert Preston, Robert Jackson, Martin McCann, Richard McKee and Lieut. Charles Reed.

Mrs. John Love, the church organist, presented appropriate nuptial selections on the organ.

A reception for the bridal party and immediate families was held at the Gilfillan residence following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis are honeymooning in New York. When they return Mr. Lewis will report for service with the U. S. Air Force at Langley Field, Va., on August 13.

Mrs. Lewis is a graduate of Kingswood School Cranbrook at Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and completed her freshman year at Mount Holyoke college.

Mr. Lewis is a graduate of the New Castle high school and Syracuse university.

Section C of the Y. L. B. of the Third U. P. church will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. William Hanna, Carr street.

CURRIE-ROBINSON CHARMING WEDDING

Wearing a fashionable white nylon tulle gown of her own creation, Miss Julia Currie, 117½ Park avenue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Currie, of Slippery Rock, R. D. 2, was united in marriage to Thomas J. Robinson, son of Mrs. Esther Robinson, Lathrop street.

The charming summer wedding was solemnized in the First Baptist church Saturday evening, August 5, at seven o'clock, with the former pastor, Rev. Oliver Hurst, of New Middletown, O., officiating at the impressive double ring ceremony, assisted by Dr. J. Paul Graham, pastor of the Third U. P. church.

In a festive setting of candlelight, with greenery and bouquets of white gladioli as the altar decorations, the young couple pledged their vows in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives.

The slender blonde bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was designed off the shoulder with a fitted bodice embellished with seed pearls and very full skirt. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was caught to a braided coronet, trimmed with seed pearls. She wore pearl earrings and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, white mums, and babies' breath.

Picturesque gowns of the wedding attendants were designed by the bride also. Miss Nancy Williams, the maid of honor, was in white nylon tulle over orchid taffeta. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Everett Granger and Mrs. Charles Pherson, sisters of the bride; Mrs. Robert Gregor, and Miss Sadie Robinson, sister of the groom, were gowned in white nylon tulle over pastel colors, two over green and two over yellow. Their gowns were cut low and came to a V in front. They had short sleeves, fitted bodices and full skirts. The flower girl, Miss Margaret Ann Granger, was dressed like the maid of honor and carried a basket of mixed flowers. The attendants carried arm bouquets of white gladioli and mums and wore small clusters of mums in their hair.

Alfred Hook attended the groom as best man. The ushers were Fred Howland, Keith Armstrong, Gerald Potter, and James Robinson, a cousin of the groom. Ricky Pherson was the ring bearer.

Music for the occasion was provided by soloist, Walter Van, and Mrs. W. H. Luikart, church organist.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the church, with guests also being received later at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Charles Pherson, Scotland Lane.

PROTECTION, NOT ROMANCE

The Pennsylvania State Highway Department has recently announced that 205 of the state's 325 covered bridges are still a part of the state highway system.

As a very young man we had the idea that the old covered bridges were for purposes of romance. Still farther back in our barefoot days we thought the covered bridges were for shelter for young men of the city who had gone swimming out in the rural areas.

Of course we were wrong. They were covered neither for romance of moon smitten swains nor protection of small boys. They were covered for the protection of the deck of the bridge from the ravages of the elements.

If the highways could all be covered the probabilities are we wouldn't have so much trouble with breakage in the early spring. For the elements are the wreckers of the highways more than any other one cause.

Water creeping under the surface, freezes and cracks the surface. As it melts the water washes out the sub-soil leaving no absorbing cushion for the relatively thin surface. Heat, expanding a poorly built surface, often explodes the paving.

More and more our highway engineers are learning how to weather proof highways. But until there is an absolute specific for protection against the weather, the elements will continue to wreak their vengeance.

The elements, more than highway usage, are responsible for most of our trouble.

STOCKPILE STATUS

Rep. Carl Vinson told his colleagues that this was no time to sit around and discuss who pushed the ox in the ditch. The point is, he said, to get the ox out of the ditch. This might well apply to the precarious state of the stockpile of strategic materials.

It is remembered that several congressmen got hot under the collar on several occasions since the war when the Munitions Board, which is charged with procuring stockpiles of tin, rubber, critical ores, and the like, let drop hints that very little was being stockpiled.

The board's recent report on the status of stockpiling would hardly be encouraging even were the U. S. back in the days of the "cold war." Right now the report comes as a shocker.

Despite assurances from the president and the secretary of defense that the all-round preparedness picture was bright, stockpiles are less than 40 per cent of a figure that was considered a safe minimum. Since the "safe minimum" is questionable in view of events in Asia and elsewhere, the picture may even be darker.

The current stockpile, it is said, represents expenditures of about one and one-half billion. Mr. Truman originally allowed $500,000,000 in the 1951 budget for this purpose. Now he has suggested another $600,000,000. There is no doubt that an aroused Congress will vote that sum.

This is the only time and place that hoarding is condoned.

BREVITY

A looming national crisis is cause for few snickers, but the one that hit most front pages several days ago was a natural.

The reserve officer had telegraphed the Defense Department his intentions in phraseology that was the soul of brevity. "Willing, dependable, and expendable," he wired. "Say when and where."

That is a reminder of the famous and much quoted "Sighted sub, sank same" of the last war. There was also the story picked up from the Royal Navy in the Mediterranean. The commodore of a battered, tattered Malta convoy saw the top hamper of a warship loom over the horizon. Via blinker light he demanded: "Are you British?" The answer came right back: "Very."

These little gems of communication have the virtue of cramming an immense amount of meaning into a few syllables. They catch the national attention and lose nothing in the retelling. Sharing them people draw closer together. And being united is a most valuable weapon.

Government is out to buy 600,000 tons of sugar, commonly known as hoarders' delight.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERY

On a streamliner out of Chicago I fell in with a trio of be-bop experts on their way to fill a night-club engagement in Louisville, and managed to understand almost a third of everything they had to say. The leader in particular reminded me of a character Garson Kanin loves to talk about. This exponent of rhythm in the super-modern idiom—let's call him Jones—kept himself hopped on continuously with marijuana, and when he was drafted in 1943, found himself unable to cope with army life when his supply suddenly was cut off.

As a desperate expedient, Jones decided to plant a marijuana patch around his barracks. Day after day he watered his prospering shrubs industriously and without interference. Just before they were ripe for plucking, however, the official recognition he had been dreading materialized. A full colonel strode into the area, and Jones's company was drawn up for inspection. "Private Jones," barked the colonel, "step two paces forward."

"Here's where I get it," thought Jones. The colonel eyed him sharply, then pinned a decoration on his lapel. "This medal," he explained, "is for the only man in the outfit with sufficient pride to plant a little greenery outside his barracks and tend it in his own spare time!"

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

What could be the beginning of an interesting trend is seen as a possibility today in the resignation of a British M. P. from the labor party on the grounds that Britain is close to war and needs Winston Churchill as leader.

The rebel is Arthur Raymond Blackburn, who lives in the lovely country around Sevenoaks in Kent, served throughout the world war and divides his time along the law, book-writing and serving in Parliament.

This presumably means that Blackburn will vote against the labor government of Prime Minister Attlee in the future, reducing its slim margin by one.

But whether he will start any concerted action to drive the labor party on the grounds its leadership is feeble or make any attempt to draft Churchill is problematical.

When the Korean emergency flared, the old idea of some sort of a British coalition was broached again. And while the labor government as a whole is bitterly opposed to surrendering any of its hard-won powers, the suggestion that Churchill's genius be harnessed by nominating him special defense advisor sparked the popular imagination.

Blackburn's action came immediately after the British.

Conservatives yell. The conservative press let loose a terrific blast. One editorial said that the contemplated boost is far too little. Another charged that Britain is abandoning her own responsibility by asking more United States aid in a time when America is embarking on an enormously expensive defense program for herself and other nations.

In general the criticism is based upon the contention that Britain stubbornly refuses or foolishly fails to grasp the real gravity of the international situation.

Attlee made a valiant attempt in his recent broadcast to the nation in which he said that the fire started in Korea may eventually burn down British homes.

The words were strong enough. But Attlee has little emotional appeal as a speaker. There are no indications whatever that his speech went any distance at all in galvanizing the British people.

The reasons beneath the present complacency in England are complex in the extreme. Fundamentally the average Briton seems to feel that after what he went through from 1914 to 1918 and from 1939 to 1945, there simply cannot be another war.

In addition, there is the knowledge and satisfaction that the United States acted so swiftly in the Korean crisis. Inevitably and automatically the reaction was that this time American initiative came right at the start and not after years of waiting.

During the blackest days of the second world war, Churchill delivered a masterful speech in what was for him a weary-sounding voice.

Blood and sweat. Britain seemed on the verge of invasion. He promised that the British people would fight on the beaches and in the hills and on the streets. And he served eloquent notice on Nazi Germany that what remained of the old world would somehow hold together until armed assistance came streaming eastward from the new.

There is no question as to the inspiration and encouragement such message gave to the British people when disaster seemed at hand. It is quite possible that if global war actually came, Attlee also would rise to great heights.

He is a highly capable leader and a brilliant, intensely patriotic Briton. More, than one of his predecessors has seemed pale and colorless until the real emergency arose, when greatness thrust upon them brought out latent inspirational qualities.

Blackburn obviously feels there is no need for any such trial and error when a champion with an unimpeachable past sits on the opposition bench in the House of Commons or writes books and paints pictures at a country estate in Surrey.

His move in behalf of Churchill may be significant or it may be merely interesting. It must, however, have warmed the cockles of the old warrior's heart at a moment when he feels himself swept into the discard.

But there is another kind of hoarder not nearly so evident as the greedy who cache away unnecessary supplies. The commodity speculator has been bidding up the prices of the things that all of us must eat and wear.

Work On Credit. Operating almost entirely on credit, speculators since the start of the Korean war have been buying up "futures" of soybeans, lard, wheat and other commodities. The Commodity Exchange Authority in the Department of Agriculture reports:

"A speculator who purchased just before the Korean episode and deposited the minimum margin could have 'cashed in' five weeks later, on July 28, with an approximate 450 per cent profit on lard, 300 per cent on cottonseed oil, 300 per cent on soybeans, 150 per cent on cotton or wool tops, and a comparatively small 100 per cent on the relatively sluggish wheat futures."

A small number of those who trade in commodities are in the market for a legitimate reason. They actually handle the wheat, cotton and lard in the channels of trade and they need, therefore, to protect their holdings in relation to price changes.

But up to 85 or 90 per cent of the dealing in soybeans analyzed by the exchange authority for July 21 was pure speculation—betting that the market would go up as a result of the crisis.

The speculator puts up from 10 to 15 per cent of the cost of the commodity he buys. The size of the down payment—the "margin requirement"—is fixed by the commodity exchanges. In return he gets a piece of paper showing he "owns" so much wheat or lard or cotton. Then when he thinks he has made sufficient profit, he sells something that he never saw or never had the trouble to store or handle in any way.

Capital Gain. What is more, thanks to the present tax law, he lists the profit not as income but as capital gain. If he has held the commodity more than six months he pays the capital gains rate. On a profit of, say, $100,000 he would pay $25,000 instead of $75,000.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan wants congress to raise the margin to 50 per cent. That he argues, would work to keep out a lot of the gamblers who are driving up commodity prices. Inevitably, of course, the speculation in the price of "futures" forces up the price paid in cash by those who handle the commodities and finally

KING'S HIGHWAY

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

Commodity Speculators

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A great many harsh words have been directed at the hoarders who rush into the market place to grab up sugar, nylon and other things that might become scarce. Such swiftness produces a natural revulsion in most people who sense the danger to the country and the need for steady and reasonable conduct in the face of that danger.

But there is another kind of hoarder not nearly so evident as the greedy who cache away unnecessary supplies. The commodity speculator has been bidding up the prices of the things that all of us must eat and wear.

Work On Credit. Operating almost entirely on credit, speculators since the start of the Korean war have been buying up "futures" of soybeans, lard, wheat and other commodities. The Commodity Exchange Authority in the Department of Agriculture reports:

Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright 1949, By The Baltimore Sun)

'Republican Advance'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. Politically observant persons must have noted that since the 1948 election, every few months there arises a new "Republican movement" sponsored by more or less well-known, but very seldom potent, party figures, the avowed purpose of which is to "rehabilitate and reconstruct" the Republican party along "modern lines."

This performance has been repeated so often as to have now reached the stage where only the most incurably credulous take it seriously. The most recent of these "movements" calls itself "The Republican Advance" and is promoted by a New York attorney named Henry Poor and a Mr. Russell Davenport, once briefly in the public eye as an adviser of the late Wendell Willkie. Before that it was Governor Driscoll of New Jersey, who called for a Republican "reconstruction." And before him there was a group which wanted to be the Republican party what the so-called Americans for Democratic Action are to the Democratic party—an odd ambition, to say the least.

Every one of these "movements" differs somewhat from the others but basically they are identical. Each is hotly denunciatory of the "Old Guard" and vehemently insistent upon the party "searing itself to the times" and facing the future with a "broader and more attractive" appeal. Each makes lavish use of the shopworn and meaningless adjectives "liberal," "progressive" and "constructive." They are all strong on generalities and extremely foggy concerning specific facts. When you get through reading their verbose pronouncements, including the indignant denial that they propose to "me too" the old Roosevelt New Deal and the new Truman Welfare State, you find that if that isn't their proposition then they have said nothing whatsoever and the whole business is wind.

In two other respects these efforts for Republican "rehabilitation" are exactly the same: (1) They seem to have an equally unstable existence. Some stay alive longer than others but soon or late they shrivel and fall off the vine. (2) Invariably, they secure rather important publicity for a short time. Certainly, a sure way for a Republican to get publicity is to proclaim himself a "liberal" and express discontent with the "reactionary party leadership." He does not have a program. He does not even have an idea. All he has to do is beat his breast and strike the pose. At once, he is hailed by the leftwing and advanced thinkers among the columnists, commentators and press agents. They start in to make a hero of him. From that time on he is referred to in chorus as "the hard-hitting, clear-thinking Senator So-and-So," or the "able and independent Representative This-and-That."

And though, unless completely stoneheaded, he must know that these journalistic greasers are unshakably New Deal, Fair Deal and Welfare State Democrats, it becomes the main purpose of his life to have their commendation continue. One would think the intelligent among them would realize they are behaving like political saps, lending themselves to Democratic propaganda about the desire of Republicans to return to the "Harding and McKinley days" and giving encouragement to such old political frauds as Mr. William Green, of the AFL, who regularly denounces the Republicans as "bankrupt of decent principles" and "barren of political honor."

Of course, this talk of "reactionary leadership" is the cheapest kind of claptrap. The Republicans did not lose the last four elections because they were reactionary. They lost them because of the war and the other two because, in a silly effort to outbid and out-promote conservatism, twice there have been two neglected issues upon which there is strong reason to believe they could have won. One of these is the evil effect of an enormously expanded Federal machine, the weight of which tends to keep the Administration in power and the tremendous cost of which has brought us close to economic chaos.

The other is the shameful subservience of the Democratic Administration to the greedy labor bosses, whose reckless waves of strikes have at times endangered the economic life and health of the nation. With these two and the right sort of candidate, the Republican party can afford to disregard these boresome "movements" to renovate and redecorate it. It does not need a new dress or a new look or new principles or a new program. It does need fewer men who, attracted by publicity bait,

Guadalcanal Marine Vets Mark Anniversary In Korea

This story of United States Marines in action was written on the eighth anniversary of the landing on Guadalcanal in World War II. It was written by International News Service war correspondent John Rich, who saw action in the Pacific as a Marine lieutenant.

By JOHN RICH
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

WITH THE FIRST MARINE BRIGADE ON THE KOREAN FRONT, Aug. 7.—Veteran Marines spearheaded the biggest United Nations attack of the Korean war today—eight years to the day after their invasion of Guadalcanal.

The Marines went into action on the southern front of Korea along with the reinforced 25th AGMY Division. Their equipment includes heavy tanks, super-bazookas, flame throwers and the latest weapons that could be rushed to the front.

Fanatical Enemy
As they were that fateful day eight years ago, the Marines are up against a fanatical enemy. But the Marines are a compact unit of probably the best trained ground fighters America has.

This correspondent visited these tough young Marines in their hastily dug foxholes just before they leaped to the attack, to beat to the punch the Reds who were preparing an all-out offensive of their own.

Strangely enough, most of the old timers who took part in the landing in the Solomons Aug. 7, 1942, did not remember that today was the anniversary.

Said one: "I hope the Communists don't send us any anniversary presents today."

Veterans of all ranks whom I found on the dusty roads and red clay hills of South Korea admit that the Korean terrain is more rugged than that of Guadalcanal and the weather is at least as bad.

None of these Marines have ever fought this type of warfare. They are used to fighting from a beachhead close to the ocean. Now they are based some distance inland.

First veteran of the Canal interviewed was Sgt. John Poulter of Houston, Tex., who was eating field rations consisting of powdered eggs and pineapple juice.

Chow's Better
"For one thing," Poulter said, "the chow's better here." On the difference between the wars, he commented:

"I think it's going to move faster here. We've got better equipment, rifles, rockets and more air support and more ammunition."

Tch. Sgt. Edgar Slick of Utica, N. Y., figured the fact that the army has now been fighting the North Koreans a full month means the Marines will be able to take advantage of what they have learned of Communist tactics.

Lt. Col. Ellsworth Van Orman, who landed at Guadalcanal as artillery battery commander and now is brigade intelligence officer, believes the terrain in Korea is a lot rougher than "the coconut groves of Guadalcanal." And he pointed out that "the weather in both places is stinking hot and rainy."

Maj. Charles H. Brush, Jr., of Montclair, N. J., said going into battle now feels "just the same—I feel just as uncomfortable."

This time, though, the Marines are in better shape, he commented, adding:

"We are weak in NCO's and it showed up all through the campaign in the Solomons. Luckily we had good junior officers there."

Maj. Richard E. Sullivan of Charlotte, N. C., sitting with brush in a steaming little operations tent, complained that this time there is a native population behind the lines.

The redheaded major echoed the beef of most Marines that "you can't tell peasants from North Korean soldiers."

Miss Pennsylvania Begins Her Reign

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Blonde, winsome Emilie Longacre, of Phoenixville, today began her one-year reign as Miss Pennsylvania of 1950.

The 18-year-old beauty who entered the contest as Miss Chester County won out over 11 other lovely beauty queens at Saturday night's final judging at Harrisburg. She will represent the Keystone State at the Miss American pageant at Atlantic City in September.

This is the second consecutive year a Chester county maiden was chosen Miss Pennsylvania. The retiring Miss Pennsylvania, Miss Marlene Corozza, of Kennett Square, crowned her successor.

The runner-up was Miss State Laurel Queen—Phoebe Erickson, of DuBois, and third place honors went to Carolyn Jordan, Miss Armstrong county.

The votes for top place was so close between Miss Longacre and Miss Erickson that the judges had to cast an extra ballot.

The new Miss Pennsylvania is five feet, five inches tall, and weighs 118 pounds. She won the judges' final nod with her vocal presentation of two popular ballads.

Miss Longacre already 9-5 a professional background. She sang with the Benny Goodman orchestra and has appeared on radio and television programs in Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore. Her ambition is to continue to study music.

LAUDS PITTSBURGH

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The city of Pittsburgh drew praise from the Philadelphia chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

The chapter's yearbook declared: "The biggest building story in the United States today is the re-birth of Pittsburgh through a vigorous program of city planning and tremendous projects of tearing down and building up."

Editor Norman N. Rice cited the joint efforts of political leaders and civic groups who pledged millions of dollars and helped obtain state and federal funds.

"It is a story to sting Philadelphians to action," he commented.

The Adler Planetarium and Astronomical Museum in Chicago was the first institution of its kind in America.

DROWNS NEAR HARRISBURG

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—(INS)—A 31-year-old Harrisburg man drowned yesterday in the Susquehanna river at Marysville, four miles north of Harrisburg.

The victim was identified as Robert A. Seesholtz. Police said Seesholtz was swimming with a companion, Alfred Scott, also of Harrisburg, when he went down. His body was recovered an hour later at the spot where he was last seen. A Harrisburg hospital physician worked over Seesholtz for an hour in an unsuccessful attempt to revive him.

HELPED THEMSELVES

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Thieves yesterday knocked the combination from the safe in Al Rice's Pittsburgh restaurant, removed $3,305 and then helped themselves to some cigars and an additional $60 in the cash register.

The boys, all teenagers, are making the trip in a 1929 Ford sedan. Prior to their departure, the boys built a luggage carrier for the top of the car and a box for the rear of the car to carry much needed supplies. Taking with them a tent and canned foods, the group expects to sleep in the open and do their cooking outdoors. Included in their equipment were stencils and paint with which the lads hope to letter mailboxes in effort to partially defray their expenses.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 7.—(INS)—Ten-year-old Stanley Bowman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bowman, Ephrata R. D. 2, drowned yesterday when he fell into Conestoga creek, a mile south of Lancaster.

Police said the boy was fishing with his father when he slipped on the bank, muddled by a sudden rainfall, and fell into the water at a point where city sewers empty into the stream.

The boy's father made an unsuccessful attempt to rescue his son. A police grappling crew pulled the body from the water a short time later.

State Relief Load Relatively Low

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—(INS)—State relief officials reported today that Pennsylvania's public assistance case load is relatively low in comparison with the nation as a whole.

The department of public assistance referred to 1950 population figures released by the U. S. census bureau as a basis for a claim that 10 other industrial states have larger relief loads than Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania averaged 20.5 assistance cases for every 1,000 persons in its 1950 population at the end of May, the department said, while the national average was 27.2 cases.

An average of 20.8 cases per 1,000 population was cited for Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan,

New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Average monthly per capita expenditure for relief grants in May was $1.10 in Pennsylvania, $1.33 in the nation and $1.17 in the group of 10 industrial states.

"Assignment; America"

By INEZ ROBB
(Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)

(Distributed By International News Service)

BOISE, Ida., Aug. 7.—Dear boss: Well, you will be glad to know that Robb's infallible football forecast for '50 follows.

As you will remember, my spectacular prognostications for '49, based on confidences imparted to me by the coaching staff of Annapolis, caused mass mail derision in the sports department. Why don't you give Bob Considine and the other boys fifty cents for headache powders before they read this?

I am giving you this special feature at no extra cost, as I have just had luncheon with Frank Leahy, football coach of Notre Dame, undefeated during the past four years. Is that bad? And how'm I doing?

Mr. Leahy is out here in God's country conducting a football clinic for the Idaho High School Coaches association. It is his considered belief that one of the nicest ways to get rich quick is to find yourself a sucker who wants to bet against Army in 1950.

Army Champion?
"Army will be national champion in '50," said Mr. Leahy, without any qualifications, its, ands or buts.

The No. 2 team, in Coach Leahy's opinion, will be the University of North Carolina, and he would not be at all surprised if the University of Kentucky and the University of Oklahoma fought it out for the No. 3 spot.

You have probably observed that Notre Dame, the nonpareil of the undefeated and the irrepressible, is not even listed among the nation's top four in '50. This is not due to any false modesty, Mr. Leahy protested. Notre Dame, undefeated during its last four seasons, is due for a hiding this year, in his opinion.

"I'm convinced our winning streak is going to be broken," Mr. Leahy said, and added, with a grin, "nineteen fifty will test the loyalty of our alumni."

Notre Dame's coach feels that his team will not only be licked once but perhaps several times during the season. It will not surprise him at all if North Carolina turns the trick next September '30 when she meets the Irish on their home ground.

Mr. Leahy also feels that Tulane, Purdue, Ohio, Michigan State, Southern California, Navy, Indiana and Iowa will have equally good opportunities to avenge themselves on Notre Dame this year.

"If nothing else, the law of averages will beat us," Mr. Leahy predicted. "No team can go on winning forever."

Lost 27 Men
Notre Dame has lost 27 men from its 1949 football squad, 10 of them from the first team. Of four all-American players in '49, only Bob Williams of Baltimore, quarterback, remains to play in '50.

On the other hand, Mr. Leahy pointed out that Army "has talented football players and football coaching and that is gridiron strength in any league." The Notre Dame coach is particularly fond of Al Pollard, a fullback who played on the Piebe team last year. Mr. Leahy believes he is a natural, better than the great "Doc" Blanchard.

"Army was undefeated in '49 but still didn't rank among the first three," the coach continued. "Mainly because of an inferior schedule. The schedule for '50 is about the same. But I predict that Army will roll up such big scores that the experts can't overlook her this year when handing out the honors."

Mr. Leahy, who is awfully tall, dark and handsome, but has a wife and six children, believes that Michigan and Ohio State will fight it out for first place in the Big Ten. It seems this used to be the Big Nine, but is the Big Ten in '50 because Michigan State has been admitted to membership. Coach Leahy says it is just possible that the newcomer can lick the football pants off the others as "she has a marvelous gridiron machine."

The University of Southern California is the team to beat on the west coast, especially since it has acquired a sensational player named Hoagy Carmichael, but not the original Hoagy Carmichael.

"What the guy hasn't got, he'll never need," Coach Leahy declared. Also, he believes Stanford ought to be greatly improved and a power in this league in '50.

Penn Promising
In the Ivy league, Mr. Leahy puts his faith in the University of Pennsylvania and credits its improvement to guess who? Prexy Harold Stassen! This ought to get him some scattered votes on the first ballot at the Republican convention in '52. Mr. Leahy seemed to feel that Yale, Harvard and Princeton prospects were too painful to discuss, so I changed the subject.

Well, sir, Mr. Leahy believes that University of Kentucky is rare in '50 to go right down the gridiron and through its opponents. Ditto with the University of Oklahoma in the Big Six.

Now for the bowl games. The Notre Dame coach thinks it will be Southern California vs. Ohio U. vs. Kentucky U. in the Sugar State in the Rose Bowl; Oklahoma Bowl and North Carolina vs. goodness-knows-whom in the Orange Bowl.

It may fascinate you to know that the "fair catch" has been ruled out of football in 1950. Also, Coach Leahy believes the two-platoon system is here to stay, because more boys can play football, fewer are injured, it makes a happier squad and a better game for the spectators.

"I have even heard of a three-platoon system," Mr. Leahy said. "One for offense, one for defense, and one to attend school."

Okay, tell those guys in the sports department to go back to their tating.

Local Man Jailed In New Kensington

New Kensington Police Chief John Bettor revealed yesterday that Westley Cochran, 34, said to be of this city, has been sent to Westmorland county jail to await trial under the Uniform Firearms Act.

Cochran was arrested early Thursday morning after he was seen allegedly speeding through a stop sign. In the glove compartment of his car police discovered a .22 calibre loaded target pistol as well as a butcher knife, bottle of hair dye, and a long-bladed pen-knife.

He was given a hearing yesterday afternoon by New Kensington Magistrate Barnett Sakulsky and sent to county jail upon failure to provide bond.

Gov. Duff Orders
No Dem DebatesRefuses Dilworth's
Platform Challenge

(By International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—(INS)—As far as leading Republicans are concerned, Richard Dilworth may as well save his breath instead of challenging them to open debate during his campaign for governor . . . The Democratic gubernatorial candidate's latest rebuff occurred Friday at Towanda . . . Dilworth invited both Gov. James H. Duff and Republican gubernatorial nominee, John S. Fine to appear on the platform with him at a Veterans of Foreign Wars rally . . . Duff telegraphed he could not make it and Fine sent a message pleading a previous engagement . . . It is understood Duff laid down orders at a recent meeting of top GOP strategists at Hershey that no office-seeking Republicans in any part of the state would snatch at Dilworth's bait . . . The governor is said to have insisted that candidates follow their own campaign plans and not be drawn into aiding Dilworth's cause.

The 1950 county and community fair season is underway in Pennsylvania and more than four million persons are expected to push through the turnstiles before the season closes in mid-November . . . The State Agriculture Department listed 107 fairs with agriculture exhibits and at least 100 of these are eligible for state aid for payment of premiums for farm exhibits . . . Last year 95 out of 109 fairs qualified for the state aid. The new fair listing set a new record, the department reported.

The State Insurance Department will ask the 1951 general assembly to clarify a section of the commonwealth's insurance rating law that has caused contention in the industry for more than a year . . . Section 7 applying to deviations provides that companies seeking to charge rates deviating from those fixed by the state must file their intention for a period of 30 days during which time hearings may be held . . . Commissioner Armas C. Leslie wants the legislature to say in clear-cut terms whether the deviation rates cannot become effective until hearings are held . . . The matter caused 126 fire underwriters to protest to former commissioner James F. Malone in July 1949 . . . They said that a 15 per cent rate slash by the Insurance Company of North America was unfair to other companies . . . The deviated rates were ruled ineffective as of October 1, 1949, but the lower rates were charged during the month before . . . Malone held that the rates should stand, and Leslie affirmed the ruling, but insisted he was not starting a trend.

Cigarette smokers who buy 'em by the pack were saved money by the State Revenue Department although purchasers of standard brand cartons must pay four cents a carton more . . . Increasing the state's minimum carton price from $1.96 to $2, Deputy Revenue Secretary W. H. Beachy announced that the price per pack would remain at 20 cents . . . Retailers under the "unfair Cigarette Sales Act" of 1949 must add at least six percent to the wholesale cost of cigarettes . . . The wholesale price rose from $1.85 to $1.89 per carton . . . Adding six per cent, a carton would cost $2.0034, meaning that if the fraction of a cent were added cartons would cost a minimum of $2.01 and single packs 21 cents . . . However, the department decided to base its minimums on each wholesale thousand cigarettes rather than cartons since that is the amount most dealers buy anyway . . . At that rate each retail pack comes to 19.99 cents, or 20 cents across the counter.

SAVED BY OPERATOR
BOSTON—Pauline Mainscow, 22, a telephone operator, saved the life of a woman who suffered a severe gash on her chin when a falling china closet knocked her unconscious. In her fall, Mrs. Hiram K. Moses, 44, knocked a telephone off a table. Miss Mainscow heard a groan over the wire and notified police.

BRINGING UP FATHER

BY GEORGE McMANUS

Heroic Truck Driver
Given Merit Medal

WASHINGTON, August 7.—The rescue of another truck driver from a flame-filled cab has brought to Wayne B. Mickle, driver for Continental Transportation Lines, Pittsburgh, one of the organized trucking industry's top honors—a "Pro Meritis" award.

The 28-year-old driver from New Paris, Bedford County, Pennsylvania, was picked from a large number of nominees from every section of the nation by an impartial panel of trustees appointed by the American Trucking Association, Inc. The awards are made for "outstanding meritorious service performed outside the line of duty," outstanding contributions to highway safety and a long individual safety record which includes courtesy citations.

On a cold February night of this year, the Continental Lines driver was going east on Highway 22 near Harrisburg. A Pennsylvania State Police officer signaled him to stop due to the icy conditions of the road. He had almost stopped when another truck slid into the rear of his trailer and burst into flames. Mickle immediately raced back to the other truck. He found the driver in the right side of the cab, unconscious. Flames were inside the cab and were shooting up from the gasoline tank past the door, but he ripped open the door and pulled the other driver to safety. Mickle removed the unconscious man's burning shoes and smothered the fire on his trousers. He then dashed back to his own truck and pulled it away from the burning vehicle which was wedged under his.

Earlier, Mr. Mickle had been named "Driver of the Month" for June by the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association for the courage and rescue, receiving that award at PMTA's 17th Annual Meeting, June 24.

In geological parlance this is the Quaternary period of the Cenozoic era.

1. AN AGREEMENT AND AN EARTHQUAKE launched Ford in the "Wild West." In 1903, Billy Hughson's agreement with the Ford Motor Company established him as the world's first Ford dealer. The San Francisco earthquake almost swallowed up this new enterprise. But the surviving cars did such notable rescue work that many orders followed. Recently Billy posed with Henry Ford II in his first sale.

2. FRIENDS TELL HUGHSON that he has enough satisfied customers to elect him mayor of the city of San Francisco. Like all Ford dealers, Hughson trains his men to be helpful, informative—never "high pressure." Over 300 Hughson "graduates"—men who worked for Billy at one time or another—have opened friendly Ford dealerships of their own.

HE RODE FORD'S WAGON TO SUCCESS

World's first Ford dealer finds the good life sought by all Americans

BILLY HUGHSON is known around San Francisco as the man who lost 35 million dollars. That's how much he would have made if he had invested $5,000 in the Ford Motor Company in 1903, as Henry Ford wanted him to do.

But young Billy Hughson had other ideas. With his $5,000 borrowed capital he purchased the first carload of Ford automobiles to roll from the old Mack Avenue plant in Detroit. With them he launched a business and a life that no millions could make richer in happiness and satisfaction.

Although Billy Hughson is the oldest Ford Dealer, there are many other old-time Ford dealers who also cherish the memory of the elder Henry Ford's personal friendship. Today there are 46 dealers who started with a Ford franchise before 1910, and are still actively in business as Ford dealers. Most of these men, attracted by Henry Ford's individuality and genius, went to Detroit to see just what he was doing. At once they caught his spirit and shared his vision of putting America on wheels.

To distribute his cars, Henry Ford picked his men shrewdly and led them courageously. Good citizenship like Hughson's was, and is, the keynote. It reflects the good industrial citizenship the Ford Motor Company constantly strives for.

It's all part of the basic Ford idea . . . to make and distribute the best possible products . . . in the best possible way . . . for the benefit of all.

3. HIS CHILDREN all married and settled, Hughson now lives with his wife in a comfortable hilltop apartment overlooking San Francisco Bay. Trophies, such as the Old Timers Cup, which he is shown examining, remind him of the avid interest in automobile racing he shared with his friends Henry Ford, Barney Oldfield, and Eddie Rickenbacker.

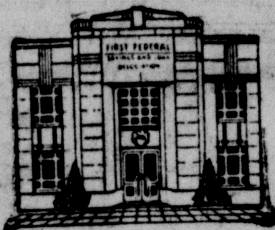

4. YOUNG IN HEART—with Ford still in his future—Billy Hughson is representative of the quiet success that has come to thousands of independent businessmen who have associated themselves with Ford as dealers. And, as one of the men who "put America on wheels," Billy Hughson knows that it takes a lot of growing to keep up with Ford.

5. A KIWANIS LUNCHEON is merely one in a week-long series of service organization meetings for popular Billy Hughson. Holding important offices in numerous groups, he lends support to children's clinics, cancer campaigns, and is instrumental in raising funds for community-aid projects.

6. BILLY HUGHSON is a man who has enough satisfied customers to elect him mayor of the city of San Francisco. Like all Ford dealers, Hughson trains his men to be helpful, informative—never "high pressure." Over 300 Hughson "graduates"—men who worked for Billy at one time or another—have opened friendly Ford dealerships of their own.

B-29s Attack Korean Industrial Targets

TOKYO, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The Far East air forces announced today that a newly-reinforced bomber fleet operated today against North Korean industrial targets. The bulletin said that elements

"of a bomb group which arrived six days ago were in action today." It also stated that B-29s were out in "considerable force."

There was no indication in the bulletin as to whether the B-29s were attacking today in their full and usual strength of 50 planes and no mention of their target was made.

Harriman Reported Seeking Jap Treaty

(BULLETIN)

TOKYO, Aug. 7.—(INS)—W. Averell Harriman, head of President Truman's three-man political mission to the Far East, returned to Tokyo from Korea at 8:45 o'clock tonight (6:45 a. m. EDT).

Harriman flew to the war-torn country following a conference yesterday with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The special advisor to the President was accompanied by Lt. Gen. Lauris Norstad, deputy air force chief, and Maj. Gen. Frank E.

Lowe, reserve officer assigned to White House duty.

The three were luncheon guests of MacArthur Sunday. The main purpose of their trip, according to Washington speculation, is consultation with MacArthur on terms for an early peace treaty with Japan.

Excitement On Potomac Caused By Leaking Oil

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)

—Observers who doubted the sanity of Washington firemen when they saw them playing their hoses on the Potomac river got an explanation today. The fire department said that oil and gasoline had seeped from underwater pipes onto the Washington channel, creating a fire hazard with a floating oil slick.

The firemen were just trying to wash the slick out to midstream where it would do the least damage if someone tossed a match overboard. No one did, and the leak was repaired.

State Head Speaks

Legion Favors Draft Of Manpower For Work

The Pennsylvania American Legion meets in Philadelphia Wednesday for its 32nd annual convention which State Commander Walter A. Alessandrini ominously warns "may prove to be the last Legion convocation in a nation technically at peace." In a series of two articles prepared exclusively for International News Service, Alessandrini outlines the Legion's task of preparedness to aid the nation which is at a crossroads that may lead to World War III.

By WALTER E. ALESSANDRINI, Pennsylvania Commander, American Legion
(Written Exclusively for I. N. S.)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—(INS).—The 32nd Annual Convention of the American Legion, Pennsylvania department, meets this week in Philadelphia, with American soldiers in action in Korea, and the threat of general hostilities hanging over the entire world.

The breaking into the open for the long fight between the free nations and those which tremble under the yoke of Communism lends a solemn note to what may prove to be the last Pennsylvania Legion convocation in a nation technically at peace.

The calling into action of the famous 28th Division, the Pennsylvania National Guard, has further brought home to more than 7,200 delegates and alternates the deadly seriousness of the international situation and the nearness of the sleeping volcano of total war.

Stress Preparedness
The American Legion has always been foremost in the fight to keep America prepared for any military emergency, and at this time, we of the Pennsylvania department will reaffirm our belief in complete preparedness and the building up of a strong fighting force through the exercise of universal military training.

It is almost certain that a resolution will be placed before this convention that the government be given power to draft manpower, not only for the fighting fronts, but also for essential production of materials of war.

The existence of the atomic bomb, and the certain knowledge that the nation whose imperialistic policies and insinuating aggression we oppose in the United Nations also possesses the bomb, have changed the basic concept of war. While the Korean fighting tends to show that the foot-soldier is still the key to a successfully waged war, the development of new long range weapons such as guided missiles and the A-bomb now make it possible for two nations more than 7,000 miles apart to carry a war directly to each others' cities and create civilian chaos.

halt stoppages
It is quite possible that the Legion will demand at this convention that all strikes, walk-outs and work stoppages of any kind be called off until such time as the national safety is no longer involved.

The men of the Legion, veterans of one or two world wars themselves, know the problems of the fighting man, and the things which are necessary to keep him going.

No convention of Legionnaires, meeting while American soldiers fight valiantly against overwhelming odds to hold a beach-head for freedom in the Pacific, is going to sit idly by and take no action to insure that from this time on our boys will enter every fight with an even chance.

(Tomorrow: The Legion Fights Communism.)

Human Treatment For Diabetic Dog

CHICAGO—(INS)—Wags, a nine-year-old dog of mixed ancestry, is somewhat of a celebrity in the world of dog fanciers and should the occasion arise she could talk about her "operation" with the best of them.

The aging pet belonging to Patricia Ermitage, 8, is assured of three or four more years of life despite a severe diabetic condition because a pair of Chicago doctors gave her the human treatment.

Little Patricia and her father took the dog to Billings Memorial hospital last year when she was in a deep coma.

Drs. Henry T. Ricketts and Charles Test discovered the diabetic condition and gave her the same treatment reserved ordinarily for humans—insulin, blood transfusions and saline injections.

The dog was able to return home within a week and since that time has maintained good health by means of a daily injection of insulin made by Patricia's mother.

Wags remains unaffected by her

Snakes Disputed In Dancer Death

TOKYO—(INS)—The death of a Japanese snake-dancer has touched off a weird dispute between her mother and her former stage partner over the disposal of a dozen live reptiles.

Mrs. Kim Matsumoto, 56, blaming the death of her daughter on the "evil spirits" which Japanese traditionally associate with snakes, threw the dozen into a basket and dumped them in a lake behind a Buddhist temple.

Kim Kurenai, 24, the surviving half of the snake-dance team, rushed frantically to the lake to retrieve the reptiles before they drowned. She succeeded in recovering six of them, including "Daichan" (Big Boy), a six-footer.

Miss Kurenai now threatened to sue Mrs. Matsumoto for "willful and malicious" destruction of stage properties.

The late Chikako Kato, 26, and Miss Kurenai lived together with their snakes in the Matsumoto home. When not appearing in the theaters they spent most of their time with the snakes, who used to have the run of the house.

Mrs. Matsumoto says she never likes snakes but tolerated them because her daughter depended upon them for her living.

Her dislike of snakes grew into hatred when her daughter died of an abdominal cyst after having been hospitalized for two months.

Miss Kurenai, who has already found a new partner, intends to continue with the act in which the scantily-clad dancers appear or stage with writhing snakes wrapped around their necks and arms. She says that by perpetuating the act, she will "keep alive in the public mind the memory of my late partner."

PRIZE BULL DIES

GALESVILLE, Wis.—Two thousand dollars in hand is better than a bull in the rendering plant, the operators of the Swiss Hill Farms learned. They turned down an offer of $2000 for their prize bull, Galahad. Galahad then developed a slight limp and dropped dead.

BEE STING FATAL

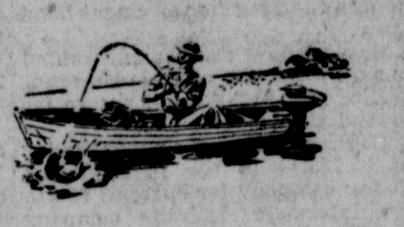

SOUTH BUTLER, N. Y.—Vacation had just begun for Delmore C. Stell when a bee stung him through the eyelet of a shoe. The 46-year-old Auburn Prison guard died later at his home. His doctor attributed death to a heart attack.

City Asks For Traffic Light

Want One At Long And Jefferson

Mayor John F. Haven, who suggested at a former meeting of city council, which was held in city hall, said Monday in council session that he would entertain motions for new traffic lights at East Washington and Junior High streets, and Wilmington and Garfield avenues, to-day said he would entertain a motion for a traffic light at Jefferson street and Long avenue.

Councilman Richard I. Davis put the motion, which was seconded by Councilman Joseph F. Medure. It was adopted.

Davis also made the motion for the East Washington and Junior High streets light, while E. Gene Schweinsberg presented the motion for the Wilmington-Garfield avenues light. They were adopted recently.

The State Highway Department will be asked to approve the requests.

The department received from the city, some time ago, a request for a traffic light at Arlington avenue and East Washington street.

Cannot Get Discount

The company told council that providing they paid a balance of approximately $2,000, they could do so at a discount but Mayor John F. Haven said this is impossible as the city is short of funds, and added "you cannot pick up $2000 as quickly as desired."

Shaffer & McBurney, who built a house in Meyer avenue, paid the city $583 today for a sanitary sewer. Council agreed to the request of the firm that assessments against others be assigned to the firm. Edwin Stevens, Carlisle street, said he was opposed to paying an assessment because the sewer will not run past his property.

By motion of Streets Director E. Gene Schweinsberg, council approved plans for the paving of Ryan avenue between East Washington street and Stanton avenue and also for paving of Pollock avenue between Division and Luton streets.

Grading, Sewer Bids Opened

Five Thoroughfares Will Be Improved

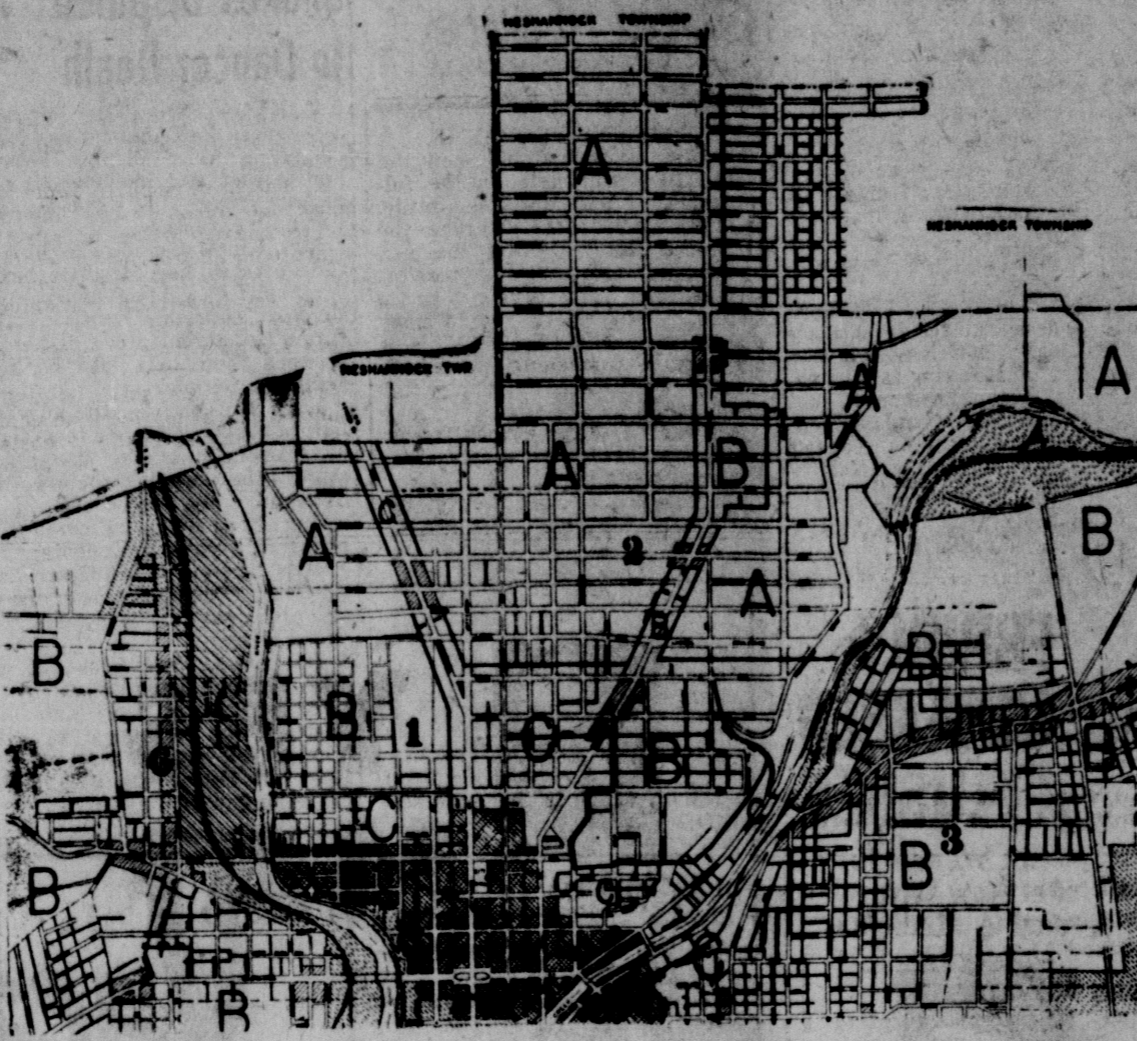

Council met Monday in city hall where bids were opened for the grading of, and construction of a sanitary sewer in Randolph street. The bids were referred to Streets Director E. Gene Schweinsberg and City Engineer for checking and a report to council. The bids were as follows:

New Castle Duntle company $3,761.50; Sylvester Bros., $1,873.75.

Grading of, and construction of a sanitary sewer in National street, Wesley avenue and Vogel street, drew bids as follows:

Sylvester Bros., $2300.05; New Castle Duntle company, $6,992 and Kane Bros., $4,081.

MAP OF TENTATIVE REVISED ZONING IN PARTS OF WARDS 1, 2, 3 AND 6

(Editor's note: This article concerns the tentative draft of revised zoning in New Castle, which is being studied by council and the city planning commission. It is accompanied by maps. Today's story will be followed Tuesday and Wednesday by two other articles and maps which explain what is permitted in the various zones, provided they remain as is.)

The Government Consulting Service of the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, which has been employed by Mayor John F. Haven and other councilmen to revise New Castle's zoning, has submitted a tentative draft to council. Some time ago council named E. Gene Schweinsberg to act as chairman of the city's zoning committee.

The tentative draft of the proposed revision of the zoning ordinance and zoning map have been prepared for detailed review by council, the planning commission and other interested bodies.

It is designed to implement policy decisions and planning objectives which were defined at several joint meetings of council and the city planners, with representatives of the Consulting Service.

It is recommended the draft be subjected to thorough scrutiny, particularly from the standpoint of local policy.

All questions, comments and suggestions should be noted, the representatives of the Consulting Service state, and suggestions these ends are to be discussed next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in the capital at the National Conference on Aging. The conference is sponsored by the Federal Security Agency.

Copter Airports Seen In Future

LONDON (INS)—Most cities in Britain will have helicopter stations with bookstalls, refreshment and waiting rooms by 1955 if plans of British European Airways materialize.

Models of such air-bus stations—many on railway station roofs—have been prepared by B.E.A. Experts consider railway stations make excellent ready-made sites for roof-top landings. They usually have good clear approaches and so close a link-up of the two forms of transport has obvious advantages for travelers.

In addition, since both the British railways and B.E.A. are state-owned, the problem of acquiring sites is simplified.

Two factors have convinced B.E.A. of the urgent need for preparations to meet air-bus traffic demands in five years time:

1. The swift success of the recently-opened helicopter service between Cardiff, Wales; and Liverpool, Lancashire.

2. Bigger helicopters being built by the British Aeroplane company to seat 12 to 16 passengers will be available in large numbers.

The B.E.A. plan includes an advance service to local authorities anxious to provide landing stations.

Plan Writing Course Here In September

A creative writing course for potential writers will be available this fall, the course to start in September.

The course is being arranged by the New Castle public school adult education program. Already many writers have shown an interest in the course and have registered. The course is open to any person having an aptitude or interest in writing. Students, however, whether in school or college, are not eligible to register in this course.

Any person interested may get additional information and register for the course by contacting Mrs. C. R. Brenner, 1617 Huron avenue, or Miss Palma Julian, New Castle News.

'Women Take Age Better Than Men'

By MARTHA KEARNEY (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—China straps and mud packs to the contrary, women accept advancing age with more grace and less non-sense than men.

So says Dr. William J. Moutin, deputy surgeon general of the United States, who thinks women manage the aging problem better "because they don't get thrashing around—they just get some yarn and start knitting."

Dr. Moutin contends that women adjust themselves better to life in later years than men and make themselves more useful. He points out that a marked disintegration of personality is noted in aging men.

The doctor adds:

"Even in an old persons' home the women are neat and manage to keep themselves occupied while the men generally slouch around untidily and have to be persuaded out of moping around doing nothing."

"A woman never retires—she goes right on working away at something even when she grows older. She always feels useful to someone and very often fits herself successfully into a new household."

"Men, on the other hand, don't seem to be able to find anything to do. They feel useless and after a while other people are inclined to agree with them."

Dr. Moutin is of the opinion that miraculous medical and scientific discoveries which prolong life "don't mean very much if an older person doesn't have anything to do with his life afterward."

With more people in the population growing older and older, he believes, the idea is to promote general understanding of their problems and to increase their effectiveness both economically and socially.

The answer, he believes, is a two-pronged educational project: to teach the older individual to live out his later years constructively and to teach society to accept him as both productive and valuable.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 7.—(INS)—London-born Patricia Medina who usually is cast as a harem girl, the other woman or an international spy in Hollywood movies wants to spike that old saying that English girls simply are no match for American femmes.

The raven-tressed actress argues that the Bonnie English lassies need take second place to no one anywhere in the world, which, of course, includes Hollywood.

"They are just as hep as the sharpest campus cutie," Patricia says, "and have as much zip, nerve, intelligence and sex appeal, to say nothing of good looks."

Doing Fine Job

At the moment the petite but highly combustible Patricia is doing an exemplary job demonstrating all these assets in 20th Century-Fox's "The Jackpot," in which she plays the other woman in the otherwise lack-luster life of Jimmy Stewart.

Jimmy was not supposed to be too interested in her, the way the script started out, but that just did not make sense because even the film in the camera seemed to curl a little on the edges after Patricia undulated across the scene to vie with Barbara Hale for Jimmy's affections.

Patricia thinks that most people get the wrong impression about English girls because they are misled by first impressions.

"I think it is true," Patricia allows, "that most English girls have a greater reserve and aren't quite as quick as the Americans in the ability to make new friends."

Quite Spirited

Once a friendship is established, however, the London lassies are just as spirited and vivacious as the next person, if not more so, attests Patricia.

The English actress says, however, that the nod goes to the American girls when it comes to dress—that the average coed somehow managed to look very chic even in something pulled from a bargain basement counter.

In "The Jackpot," Patricia finds herself in a character portrayal which represents her as half vixen and half angel.

"And I think that just about sizes up all women," laughs Patricia, "English and American."

Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. S. Civil Service Examiners, Bureau of Reclamation, Denver, Colo. Applications for social worker must be filed not later than September 19.

County Employment Situation Good

Lawrence county business is good, if action at the Pennsylvania State Employment office on East Washington street is any indication.

Applications for jobs and applications for unemployment compensation have both taken a big drop, it is announced by Francis Maffei, manager of the local office.

Applicants for jobs for the month of July totalled 2559, a drop of 350 over the month of June. Applicants for unemployment compensation during July totalled 1360, a drop of 380 over the month of June.

These figures are the best in Lawrence county since immediately following the war, Mr. Maffei reports.

It was also announced that 195 persons were placed in jobs through the local office in July. Of these, 54 were placed in service positions, 46 in clerical and sales positions, 49 in unskilled jobs, 32 in skilled positions, 11 in semi-skilled, two in professional and one in farm positions.

Skilled workers, typists and stenographers are still much in demand it is announced.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By P. R. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

To Spank Or Not To Spank

Standing at a busy street corner a reporter on the Chicago Sun-Times stopped and asked five passers-by the following question: "Who spans the children—you or your mate?" Those whose replies were printed were all men, and to many of us their responses may be a bit surprising.

Out of the total of five, only two said that spankings were administered in their homes, and these infrequently. In addition, one of the two who was supposed to spank the boys when he came home, felt that it did no good because the child would have forgotten what the spanking was for. The other, whose wife gave whatever spanking was needed, said that such punishment didn't do much good and believed that both he and his wife achieved much better results by reasoning with the youngsters.

It would be interesting to know whether these Chicago fathers are at all typical. There's no question that plenty of spanking is still going on in American homes, but gradually this form of punishment appears to be dying out. Today's parents are finding more effective methods of controlling their children's behavior.

"TERRIBLY EMBARRASSED by HOT FLUSHES But I Get Wonderful Relief Now With This Amazing Medicine!"

"I hated the very thought of change of life. So many women I know from 38 to 52 years suffer from nervous, irritable, weak, tired feelings due to this functional middle-age period peculiar to women—the time when fertility ebbs away. I was terribly embarrassed by hot flushes, but I find that now I can get amazing relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Lydia Pinkham's Compound also relieves miserable high-strung, cranky feelings when due to this cause."

"I find that by taking Lydia Pinkham's Compound faithfully, it helps build up resistance against such middle-age distress. I can well understand why it's called 'the woman's friend.' Me for Lydia Pinkham's Compound every day."

P. S. Pinkham's Compound is very tasty in a little fruit juice. Or you may prefer Lydia Pinkham's TABLETS with added iron. Handy to carry in your purse.

WEDDING PROBLEMS

"I plan to be married soon and would like your help on the following: (1) I shall dress as a bride. Will 4 o'clock in the afternoon be a correct time? (2) May the men of the wedding party wear tuxedos at that time? (3) I have two single sisters. What part should they play in my wedding? (4) What is my part in furnishing our apartment? Do I help to supply furnishings?"

Answer: (1) Four o'clock is correct time for either a formal or informal wedding. (2) Tuxedos are not correct before 6 p. m. and are correct only at a wedding at which the bride wears dinner clothes. The men of your wedding party should wear afternoon clothes.

(3) Your two sisters may be bridesmaids or one may be the maid of honor and the other a bridesmaid.

(4) The bride should supply the household linens and, of course, her trousseau. While actually the bridegroom should supply a home for the bride, they may combine forces in furnishing the home. Sometimes, a great many of the items are gifts from both families.

Question: I am going to give a dinner-dance at my husband's club. Is it our duty as host and hostess to sit out dances if some of our guests do not dance?

Answer: If there is one non-dancer among your guests, someone should remain at the table with him or her while the others are dancing. It would be rude for everyone to leave a guest, especially a woman, entirely alone. If there are two or more non-dancers, they may periodically be left alone, although either you or your husband should occasionally "sit out" a dance with them.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly send personal replies to questions from readers inclosing stamped, addressed envelopes.

Senators Split With Youngstown Over Weekend; Lose League Lead

Locals Win Saturday Night Game 5 To 4 In Thirteen Innings, But Lose Sunday Afternoon Game, 13 To 8

The "uppsa-daisy, down we go" battle between New Castle and Oil City for the Middle-Atlantic league leadership, finds Oil City on the uppsa daisy side today, by virtue of a half-game, as a result of being idle over the week-end and the Senators splitting a pair with Youngstown.

Saturday night's donnybrook at Flaherty Field found the Senators winning 5 to 4 in 13 innings, of a wild and woolly ball game that had the fans in a dither, especially in the 10th inning when it looked as if New Castle had won, but Mr. Fevreau the plate umpire thought differently, and said that Horne was out for leaving third too soon. Danny Dondero drove Merle Fredericks home with the winning run in the last of the 13th, and this time the game was really over.

Wagner Is Chased, Rossman Winner
It was a heartbreaker for Frank Wagner Saturday night after pitching seven scoreless innings, to run his total consecutive scoreless innings to 32, to have to leave the game, but Youngstown got hot in the eighth and after two costly errors, Caravello who had tripled, was safe at home, and then it started, with Wagner leaving the mound when Wisneski belted a double for the fourth Youngstown run. Churchill coming in. Before it was over in the 13th, New Castle used Becka and Rossman, the latter getting the win, his 11th against six defeats.

Butler Tigers Here Thursday
Sunday Stan Zedalis was the loser, as he gave up nine runs on nine hits in five innings, with Becka, Lesko and Rossman pitching before it was over, and Youngstown won 13-8 to take the series two games to one.

The Senators left for Niagara Falls this morning for a three-game series, and will return to Flaherty Field Thursday night, to open a three-game stand with the Butler Tigers.

Dondero Hero Saturday
Danny Dondero the star second sacker of the Senators was the batting hero Saturday night, driving in Bilo with the tying run in the ninth and driving in Fredericks in the 13th, and driving in the 13th, City speed-merchant ran his stolen base record to 60 over the weekend with three Saturday night ones paying off in the ninth, and one yesterday. Bilo needs but seven more to tie the all-time Middle-Atlantic league record of 67 set by Bob Dillinger, now with the Pirates.

Great Relief Hurling
The Senators got great relief hurling Saturday night from Churchill, Becka, and Rossman, the three hurlers giving up but two hits. Becka got a great opening in the tenth, after Singletton opened with a line drive single, by fanning Etchison, Wisneski, and Panceo in a row to end the inning. Rossman hurled the 11th, 12th, and 13th allowing no hits and fanning two.

Yesterday Manager Cronin used three relief hurlers Becka, Lesko, and Rossman, the relievers allowing but five hits for four runs in the last four innings.

Steve Magula was back in uniform yesterday but is still bothered by a torn ligament, he pinched in the ninth, hitting into a double play, to end the ball game.

Churchill Seeks 15th
Cronin has nominated Herb Churchill to face the Falls team tonight seeking his 15th win of the year against six defeats. Smagol will pitch Tuesday, and Wagner Wednesday. Wagner Saturday night electrified the fans in the second inning with a center-field home run clout which was his first of the year. In the Sunday game Joe Panceo the Youngstown center-fielder hit a grand-slam homer in the fifth, a single in the sixth and a triple in the eighth driving in seven runs. Higgings had a homer for Youngstown yesterday in the fourth inning with nobody on.

Friday August 11th when the Senators meet the Butler Tigers here, it will be "Unions of the United Engineering Night" with the local plant sponsoring a large crowd in honor of the Senators. Next Saturday night the "CIO-NAU No. 69 Bronze Workers Night" will find the Johnson Bronze employees turning out strong to back the Senators.

Gaston Post Wins Opener

Defeat Brookville, 4-2, In Sectional Play

New Castle's Perry S. Gaston Post baseball team traveled to Brookville, Pa., Saturday, and defeated Brookville, 4-2, in the first round of sectional competition in the State League Tournament.

The same two teams play again tonight at C. Washington field. A large crowd is expected for the six o'clock feature.

A short spower threatened to halt the game Saturday afternoon but it ended quickly and the contest was played under ideal conditions.

The teams played under even terms, scoreless, for the first five innings. In the top of the sixth, John Sansone led off with an inside the park homer. Tommy Costello walked, stole second, and scored when the catcher pegged into centerfield.

Brookville came back with two in the bottom of the sixth. A single and a walk, plus an attempted shoe string catch that backfired, plated two markers and tied the game.

New Castle got the winning markers in the seventh. Boak walked, and came home with the deciding marker on pitcher Boak's sharp double to left field. It was Orlando's third hit in three trips.

Orlando struck out the final three men to face him to run his seven-inning total to 14. He had fanned the same three batters in the first.

FIRST NEGRO IN NATIONALS

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Althea Gibson, (right), who may be first negro to play in the National Tennis Tournament at Forest Hills, talks things over with Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke, former women's champion, at the West Side Tennis club in Forest Hills. Miss Gibson established a precedent by working out on the famed courts and will definitely appear in an important Eastern Tournament, the first negro to do so.

All-Star Grid Battle Friday

Eagles Prepare Final Scrimmage

GRAND RAPIDS, Minn., Aug. 7. (INS)—The Philadelphia Eagles football team resumes training in earnest today after a Sunday break in their rugged training grind for the tilt with the College All-Stars at Chicago Friday.

The National Football League's champion gridders ran through signal drills yesterday and then took the afternoon off for relaxation.

Final scrimmage will be held tomorrow afternoon and, after a short workout Wednesday morning, the team will leave for Duluth and board an overnight train from Chicago in the evening.

The professional champions will hold a dress rehearsal for the big all-star game Thursday night under the lights at Soldier Field and then will return to their hotel until game time Friday.

JOHNNY UNDELL, one-time New York Yankee baseball luminary, has been purchased by the Columbus, O., Red Birds of the American Association from its parent club, St. Louis Cards. (International)

Saints Vs. Indies In Tight Race

Teams To Play At Flaherty Field

St. Margaret and Lawrence Indies, one-two in the City Baseball loop, will play at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at Flaherty field. It will be important for each team to win.

Should the Saints lose their percentage will drop and the Indies will go up.

The teams are in a hot fight for first place.

City Loop To Meet Friday
Managers of City Baseball loop teams are scheduled to meet at nine o'clock Friday night at Carm's, West Washington street.

The schedule, excepting for postponed games, will have been played off, and it is important every team be represented.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

HARRY KECK, Sports Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun Tele, thinks well of Elmer Lakatos of Youngstown, who boxes Jimmy Canasta of Cumberland, Md., at 133, in a six-round bout on the Brothers vs. Swanson docket, at Flaherty field, August 17. After Lakatos had won his third consecutive technical knockout in Pittsburgh, Keck wrote:

This young man is a stalker and a puncher and with it good boxer with an educated left hand. His jab is a jolting punch, doing more damage than the right hand of most boxers. It stuns his opponents. He almost knocked out Black several times with it before referee Jack Schirker halted the bout after Black had gone down twice for counts of eight in the third round and was helpless to defend himself.

I took off to the dressing room to talk to Lakatos. I had seen enough in those three fights to convince me that he was something special.

I caught him before he had a chance to take his shower. He is a pleasant, soft-spoken little man with a fighting face.

Sure enough, he is an experienced performer, although he has had only four professional fights and won them all with knockouts. He came in here unheralded and unsung, his first two bouts scheduled four-rounders. His third was for six rounds. He'll be back on the next card on August 14.

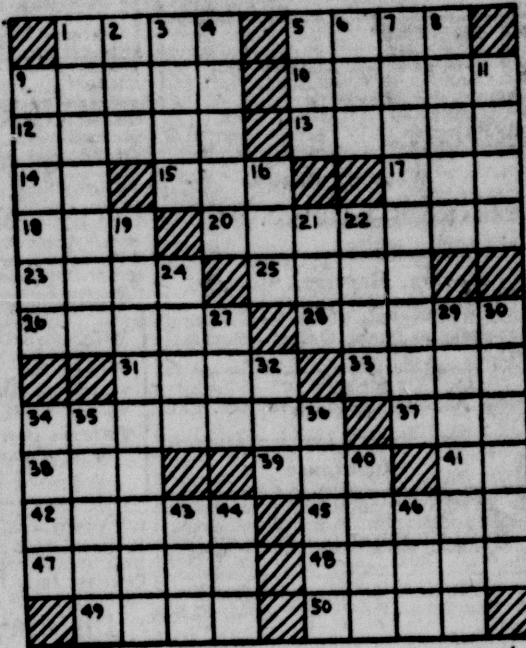

Most of his experience has been gained in the amateur ranks and in the Merchant Marine and the Marine Corps. He served for 32 months in the Merchant Marine and then enlisted in the Marines for two years, and it was while he was at Cherry Point that he came under the tutelage of a sergeant, a former boxer named Don Duarte, who taught him how to use his left hand so that he sticks with it as if it were a wagon pole driving into the face of his opponent.

But get this: He had 57 amateur bouts, of which he lost 10. He won the Southern amateur championship while in service and later the Cleveland Golden Gloves. He boxed in the Golden Gloves in New York and Chicago and each of the last three years participated in the National AAU championship tournament. He started out as welterweight and trained down to a lightweight and for a time even fought as a featherweight. He hits like a middleweight. He is the most sensational boxer to appear in preliminaries here in many seasons.

Lakatos attended Chaney High School in Youngstown and played one year of football there. He's 23 years old, of Hungarian ancestry.
